CHRISTMAS LUNCHEON

'Tis the Season to put on your Holiday finery and come celebrate Christmas with fellow Republican members and friends. Arrive at 11am with 2 wrapped toys for the children of the military at Fort Hunter Liggett. Mark the gifts boy or girl and age group. For teenage children, some cash in an envelope will give them the opportunity to buy something at the PX. Los Vaqueros Hunting Club Traveling Band will entertain at 11:30am and a prime rib luncheon will be served at noon. The Volunteer Spirit Award basket will be given to a member from a drawing of tickets earned throughout the year and the associate member of the year will be named. This is the perfect time to invite your friends who may want to join our club and don't forget to bring your 2019 membership dues of $25 for regular members and $10 for associate members.

The Los Vaqueros Hunting Club Traveling Band was born of campfire smoke, camaraderie and a love of tales and songs where creativity is not hindered by fact or truth. The band consists of close friends, Randy Handley, Terry Handley, Rich Casey and Roger Hill and has been performing for the past 20 years. They love to play music, entertain folks and help raise money for good causes. Come early and be prepared to be entertained at 11:30 by this talented group of musicians.

QUOTE OF THE MONTH

"Christmas can be celebrated in the school room with pine trees, tinsel, reindeers, but there must be no mention of the man whose birthday is being celebrated. One wonders how a teacher would answer if a student asked why it is called Christmas?"

Ronald Reagan

SAVE THE DATE

Tuesday, January 8th, will be the date of our January Regular Membership Meeting as the first Tuesday in January is New Years Day. There will be no Board meeting in December.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The mid-term elections are over and the ballots have been counted. I'm frustrated along with you as to the results here in California. Our club took on the "Yes on 6" campaign in earnest. Our members took home and distributed door hangers, bumper stickers, yard signs and information. You talked to your neighbors and friends. It seemed like a sure thing, who would not agree that repealing the gas tax that we never voted on was not a slam dunk to pass? Well, the liberals who wrote the misleading Proposition 6 description on the ballot had a lot to do with the results not to mention the millions of dollars spent by the unions and Jerry Brown to buy all of the No on 6 TV ads. Many thanks to King City business owners, including JV Automobiles, True Value Hardware, Krehbiel Auto Repair, Wildhorse Cafe and Propane, Bassetti Farms, Clark Storage and the Food Pantry who all supported Yes on 6. On a positive note, Darlene Acosta and Mike LeBarre were re-elected to our city council in King City and Lance Walker won the race for Mayor of Greenfield. My thoughts and good wishes go out to all of the State and Monterey County Republican candidates who fought the good fight and thanks to all of you who supported them.

Karen Leonhard, President

COOKIE WALK

This fund raiser was a lot of fun. Twenty members baked beautiful holiday cookies and treats. Claudia Wollesen made all the decorative signs to identify each treat. Pres. Karen Leonhard and Sec. Kathy Forgnone, Sue Kleber, Monique Craemer Todd, Barba Oetting, Bev Kelley and Suzanne Krause helped receive cookies and decorate, and made sure the event ran smoothly. We were lucky the Lions Club was having a conference next door and they were our best costumers. The only sad thing about the event is that we didn't have many customers. People who bought thought it was a great idea, so we will do some soul searching before we plan to try again next year. Bottom line is that we made $355.61.

We sincerely thank all the bakers, donors and hard-working ladies that helped with the first attempt at this fundraiser.

Dorothy Errea & Jeane Errea Mills
Co-chairmen

VOLUNTEER SPIRIT AWARD

The Volunteer Spirit Award is given to a regular member every December from a drawing of tickets awarded throughout the year for working as a volunteer in our fundraising events, voter registration, packages to the troops or serving as an officer or committee chair. A basket of gifts is donated by local merchants or club members. The more a member volunteers, the more tickets go into the drawing. The awards chair is Kathy Forgnone and she and the club President are not eligible for the prize. Arlene Azcona was the 2017 volunteer. Come to our Christmas Party and see who goes home the winner this year.

View From The Edge Of The Crowd by Lee Schell

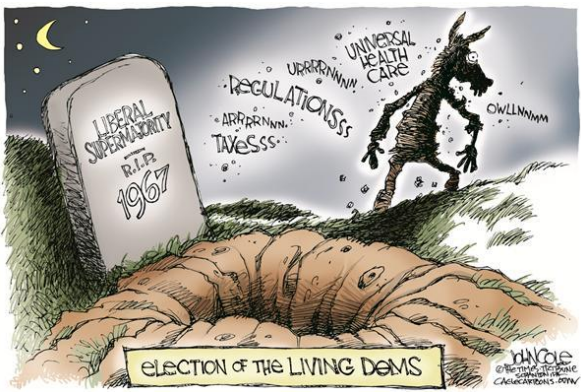

I have to admit I'm getting pretty discouraged as a Republican in California. All the time, effort, not to mention money, plowed into this past off year election was for the most part wasted. All the encouraging talk about conservative candidates riding into office on the coattails of Proposition-6 was just that--talk. Prop-6 didn't have a chance to pass what with every unionized state worker massed against it. Neither did most of the Republicans running for statewide office hoping that people who voted to repeal the gas tax would also vote for them. So, now we have another "super majority" in Sacramento and once again the Republican representatives in the state legislature are irrelevant and the Democrats can do anything they want.

That scares the hell out of me as a law abiding gun owner faced with virtually no opposition to new gun laws in this state. It is said by some that doing the same thing over and over again, expecting a different outcome, is the textbook definition of insanity. Well California lawmakers must be insane because they keep passing more restrictive gun regulations and still we have crazy people like David Long who shot up that bar in Thousand Oaks, killing a dozen people with a legally purchased Glock handgun, and we are sure to get more gun laws out of Sacramento which will do absolutely nothing to make it any safer in California. More laws will only punish law abiding gun owners who have done nothing to deserve this infringement of our constitutionally protected right to keep and bear arms.

People who perpetrate violence do not respect human life and all the gun laws passed by any government will not change this. Government is not a divine authority capable of shielding citizens from the danger presented by a flawed human condition. In fact, since we are our own first responders more gun laws only hobble us from our unalienable right to defend ourselves. Gun laws don't make us safer. They make us more vulnerable to attack by depriving us of any means necessary to defend ourselves and our families.

After this past disaster of an election, we have to deal with our worst nightmare--the governorship of Gavin Newsom who could end up being Jerry Brown to the tenth power. Get ready for more gun restrictions. Get ready for another senseless shooting. Get ready for more feigned shock by politicians when their Byzantine policies result in predicable and tragic outcomes. Our fundamental right to protect ourselves does not come from the government. It doesn't even come from the Constitution. It is an inalienable right that exists because we exist as human beings and the right to keep and bear arms-- the right to protect our lives and property--exists without official legal recognition or without judicial enforcement of that right. God gave us the right to live and prosper and only He can restrict it or take it away. I sincerely doubt that Democrat lawmakers in Sacramento will ever acknowledge our divine rights.

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

Russ Surber, retired American Diplomat was our guest speaker for the November general membership meeting. He spoke about the murder of journalist Jamal Khashoggi and Saudi Arabia. Lorenzo and staff prepared a delicious pre Thanksgiving turkey luncheon with all the trimmings. Items for the Troops were brought and thanks to Barbara Wellong, Jeane Errea-Mills, Dorothy Errea, Kathy Forgnone and Ricky Humphries for staying after the meeting to sort and pack for delivery to Occupation Care and Comfort. Our generous members donated $762 to Operation Care and Comfort. Linda Saylor was the lucky ticket holder for our Opportunity drawing.

AMERICANISM Did you know?

World War I-Just after midnight on Christmas morning, the majority of German troops observed a cease-fire and commenced to sing Christmas carols. At first light of dawn, many of the German soldiers emerged from their trenches and approached the Allied lines across no-man's land calling out " Merry Christmas" in their enemies' native tongues. At first, the Allied soldiers feared it was a trick, but seeing the Germans unarmed they climbed out of their trenches and shook hands with the enemy soldiers. The men exchanged presents of cigarettes and plum puddings and sang carols and songs. There was even a documented case of soldiers from opposing sides playing a good natured game of soccer.

Kathy Forgnone, Americanism Chair

ALEXANDRIA, Va. - The National Federation of Republican Women (NFRW) is celebrating the historic elections of several Republican women to federal and statewide office on Tuesday.

Marsha Blackburn is the first woman elected to the U.S. Senate from Tennessee, and Kristi Noem will be the first woman governor of South Dakota. Martha McSally, who is currently ahead in the vote tally in her race, will be Arizona's first woman senator if she wins.

"We are proud of the distinguished leadership and successful candidacies of these Republican women, and we are proud of their commitment to our organization," NFRW President Jody Rushton said. "We look forward to continuing to work with them after they take office in January."

The NFRW is also celebrating the election of at least three new Republican women to Congress. Young Kim won her race in California's 39th congressional district. She will be our nation's first Korean-American congresswoman. Yvette Herrell was elected in New Mexico's 2nd congressional district, while Carol Miller was elected in West Virginia's 3rd district.

In addition to Noem, at least 10 new Republican women were elected to statewide executive office, including lieutenant governors Jeanette Nunez of Florida, Janice McGeachin of Idaho and Pamela Evette of South Carolina, and more than 165 new Republican women were elected to state legislatures. Moreover, despite a few disappointments, most Republican women incumbents won reelection.

"President Trump and Republicans have a lot to savor today," Rushton said. "We held back the so-called Democrat blue wave to a ripple, gaining seats in the U.S. Senate and retaining many of our crucial state offices and legislative chambers. Thank you to Republican women across the nation for working tirelessly for victories in your states and communities. Your grassroots efforts are second to none."

Founded in 1938, the National Federation of Republican Women is the largest and most influential Republican women's group in the nation, proudly representing the party that first made it possible for women to vote in the U.S. The NFRW works to increase the effectiveness and relevance of women in the cause of good government. Our mission remains to recruit and elect Republican candidates, promote the principles of the Republican Party, educate the public and inform the media.

WHY "X-MAS"

While some rather ignorant groups in the Americas believe that the abbreviation "x-mas" is an attempt by the "dirty liberals" to "keep the Christ out of Christmas", the true origins have a strong basis in Christianity. In the abbreviation, the X stands for the Greek letter Chi, the first letter of the Greek word for Christ. Jesus' name has also been abbreviated as XP, a combination of the first and second letters of the Greek word for Christ. From XP comes the labarum, a holy symbol in Orthodox Christianity that represents Jesus. The term X-mas has been used since the 16th century, though it gained prominent usage in the 18th and 19th centuries. In the modern world, X has been taken to be used as an abbreviation for any word with Christ or the "krys" sound in it, even in words which have no etymological connection. Chrysanthemum, for example, is sometime shortened to "xant" on florist's signs, and crystal has sometimes been abbreviated as "xtal". The modern Christmas tree differs greatly from its roots; today, we decorate an everlasting, artificial construct with bright lights and dazzling ornaments, while traditionally, the tree was of course, real and more importantly, decorated with edibles such as apples and nuts. The tradition, as with that of the wreath, started with the elements symbolized by evergreens in pre-Christian winter festivals: immortality and fortitude.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE

The evergreen was also known to have represented the same values to a variety of cultures, including the Egyptians, Chinese, and Hebrews. The worship of trees was also very common in European druidism and paganism. In Christian tradition, trees were often put up in December to serve the dual purpose of warding off the devil and allowing a perch for whatever birds still remained. Evergreen trees decorated with apples and wafers were also used in Christmas Eve plays during the Middle Ages to represent the tree from which Adam and Eve ate the forbidden fruit. As for decoration, the first evidence for decorated Christmas trees comes from German craftsman guilds during the Renaissance. After the Protestant Reformation, trees enjoyed a surge of popularity among Protestant households as counterparts to the Catholic nativity scene.

SANTA CLAUS

Most people know that Santa's origins lie in Saint Nicholas, that generous Saint who gave presents to needy children. However, many other figures evolved into the conglomerate we call Santa Claus.

For one, the Dutch Sinterklaas, who himself has basis with Saint Nick, was the main inspiration for Santa Claus. He is nearly identical to Santa: he wears red and white, knows if you're naughty or nice, and has elf helpers referred to as Zwarte Piet. However, the legend takes on a much darker legend when one hears that the Zwarte Piet's duties also include punishing naughty children with "jute bags and willow canes". He also differs from Santa in the facts that he wears a bishop's hat and comes on steam boat from Spain, rather than the North Pole.

Another large influence into Santa's design is the British Father Christmas, a figure developed in the 17th century as the embodiment of holiday joy and mirth. Odin also exists as a potential pagan inspiration for Santa Claus; he lead a hunting party with other gods on Yule, a German holiday at roughly the same time as Christmas; he rode Sleipnir, a legendary horse with 8 legs; like Santa, he has 8 reindeer; and he would fill children's' boots with candy, as mentioned earlier.

The modern Santa Claus, contrary to popular belief, was not created by Coca-Cola, but has been in American folklore since the late 18th century. His name comes from an Americanization of Sinterklaas, and somewhere along the way, he lost his bishop's hat. One could write an entire list on the origins of individual components of Santa's story – suffice to say that they all have interesting origins, and I would suggest further reading.

There may be a couple levels of separation, but nearly every strange traditions we practice around the holiday season stem from Christianity, and further than that, even have a basis in Pagan religions and pre-Christian traditions. And really, do the connections to Christianity even matter? Christmas is the one time of year where everyone (or nearly so) is friendly, generous and gets along with each other, does it matter the inspiration? As a non-Christian, I believe we can all learn something from the Christmas spirit, regardless of race, religion, or creed.
